History & Fun Things to Do

Cambria and Blair Counties in Western Pennsylvania have many historic sites that are worth a visit while you are here. Railroading played a major role in the development of this region and there are opportunities to visit, learn, and see the trains up close, including a visit to the Railroaders Memorial Museum in Altoona.

A significant historic event, the Johnstown Flood, offers history buffs two museums/sites to visit: Johnstown Flood Museum and the Johnstown Flood National Memorial. And farther away in Somerset County is the Flight 93 National Memorial. Both sites are hallowed ground to remember those who perished.
